PUBLIC SCHOOL QUESTION.

POWER OF THE STATE SUPERIS TENDENT OFER OUR CITY SCHOOLS.

If Any Are Closed He Has Power to Re-open Them and Appoint a Corps of Teachers, or He May Withhold the City's Share of the Public School Funds of the State. ALBANY. Nov. 13.-If the public schools in any of the boroughs in New York city should he closed by reason of a lack of appropriations to maintain them for the remainder of the school year the State Superintendent of Public Instruction has ample power to re-open the schools and to appoint a corps of teachers, or could withhold from New York city the $1.191,-223 which the State pays that city annually out of the free school fund.

The existing condition in New York city is discussed in a letter which Deputy State Superintendent of Public Instruction Danforth E. Alneworth has written in reply to a communication from Mr. Edward L. Stevens, the Queens Borough Superintendent of Schools. Mr. Stevens asked to be advised as to his duty in enforcing the compulsory education law in ase the schools in his borough were closed. In reply Mr. Atusworth said:

Your duty and that of the Superintendent is limited to the provisions of the compulsory educational law, and thereunder, unless the school is in session, no one can be punished for not placing their children under instruc-school is in session, no one can be punished for not placing their children under instruction. I cannot see how that statute has any bearing upon the case.

"Permit me to say that the present difficulty in the city of New York is a very apt illustration of the principle for which I have always contended. While this department has never sought to interfere in the achool affairs of any city, except when there was an evil to be corrected, nevertheless there ought to be no question about the power of the State Superintendent to correct an evil when it does arise. Your charter was framed largely as an effort to exempt the city of New York from interference by State authorities, and now the schools are in such condition that some authority must be appealed to in order to comply with the provisions of the constitution, viz., that the State shall maintain a free system of common schools wherein all the children may be educated.

"Municipal government in this country has never yet been such a success that it was safe to leave each locality to determine for itself whether it would have a school or whether it would have a school or whether it would have a school fund is raised by general taxation and distributed to the localities, implies that the locality shall provide school families in accordance with that system, and I have never thought, and do not now think, that the city of New Terk, even under it charter, has a right to close its schools and still participate in the distribution of the free school fund raised by State taxation.

This question was before the department and do not now think, that the city of New Tork, even under it charter, has a right to close its schools and still participate in the distribution of the free school fund raised by State taxation.

"This question was before the department in 1892, when the corporate authorities of the eity of Elmira neglected to provide by tax the sums needed for the support of the public schools of that city for the school year, and the Board of Education assumed to close the schools and dismiss the teachers employed. Supt. Draper in that case ordered that the city authorities levy and collect the same tax in 1892 for the support of the schools as was levied in 1891. That case never got beyond the Suprintendent of Public Instruction as his order was compiled with.

"The school authorities of Watervliet, in the year 1897, failed to open the schools of that city by reason of a dead-lock in the Board of Education. Appeal was presented to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, whe made an order directing the local authorities to open the schools on a certain day. They refused to comply with his order in that respect, and then the Superintendent made an order appointing a full corps of teachers, the trunt officers, janitors and librarians, and placed them in charge of the school system of that city. Certain taxpayers made application for an injunction to restrain the Superintendent from opening the public schools, which was argued before Judge Chester in the Albany special term, in November, 1897. The Court denied the application for an injunction, holding that the State at large was as much interested in the maintenance of a public school system of that city. Certain taxpayers made application for an injunction to restrain the Superintendent from opening the public schools, which was argued before Judge Chester in the Court denied the application for an injunction before the statute and the coality itself interested of the maintenance of a public school system in the city of wear of the coality itself interested of the schools.

THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION.

Hearing on the Methods of Incorporating

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 -The Industrial Commission to-day heard testimony as to the methods of incorporating companies in New Jersey, Delaware and West Virginia, the three States whose laws are considered the most favorable to the chartering of corporations. C. N. King of New Jersey was the first witness. He is the State agent for New Jersey of a large number of corporations chartered in New Jersey and is said to represent more corporations than any other State agent in the country. Mr. King explained at some length the laws of New Jersey as far as they affected corporations, giving a number of reasons why the State was so frequently chosen by corporations seeking a charter.

A. P. Nevin of New York, who is specially interested in the chartering of corporations is West Virginia, followed. His testimony dealt with the methods of chartering companies under the West Virginia laws, describing the laws governing reports, transfer of stock, &c. J. Ernest Smith of Wilmington, Del., the next witness, is engaged in handling the arrangenents for chartering organizations under the laws of Delaware. The State has recently adopted very liberal laws, with the object of attracting laws of Delaware. The State has recently adopted very liberal laws, with the object of attracting more carperations to the State.

Mr. Smith testified as to the liability of the capital stock to taxation, the methods of keeping books of transfer and on other points relating to corporations granted franchises by the State of Delaware. The State reserved the right, he said to tax the capital stock of companies chartered by it, but doing all their business outside the State, just as if they were conducting their business within the State. Delaware, he said, had no State debt, and taxed its corporations very lightly, and the rate was likely to be reduced within the next few years. Delaware hoped to secure, by its new laws, first, the location of corporations within the State, and, second the payments made by corporations in return for franchises. He knew several companies which had through this means been induced to locate their factories in Delaware.

C. E. Edgerton, who is interested in matters affecting New Jersey corporations, testified in regard to the positing of the names of the corporations outside of the office of its New Jersey City where attorneys represented forty or fifty companies, but did not have the names of any of them posted outside their offices as the law required. Autorneys representing close corporations where the stock is held by few stockholders did not as a general thing have the transfer books in their office as the law required. The vinought in such cases, it was not a matter affecting the renearal public. If any necessity arises the attorneys and they would seem for the books.

Violation of Long and Short Haul Clause. WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.-The Interstate Commerce Commission to-day announced its fecision on the charge against the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, involving alleged and san Francisco Railroad, involving alleged riolations of the long and short clause on freight rates to Chicago for Marshfield, Springfield and other stations in Missouri. The commission says that the contention of the company that it is merely a legal carrier from Marshfield, is untenable, and the higher rates from that point are unreasonable and in violation of the long and short clause.

The Treasury Department Thinks the Situation Has Been Exaggerated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. - Comments at the Treasury Department to-day on the financial situation in New York made it more than evident that there will be no purchase of Government bonds for the purpose of relieving the tightaess of money. In fact, a positive statement to that effect was obtained from a very high officer of the Treasury Department. It was said, in modification of this statement, that in case the 'situation grew so much worse as to threaten financial disaster, the Treasury administration would not hesitate to buy bonds to the extent of $5,000,000 or $10.000,000 and perhaps more. The upinion in official circles is very strong, however, that this measure will not be neces-sary, and the Tressury Department looks for a favorable change in the New York situation before the publication of the local weekly bank statement next Saturday, or, at the farthest, within a fortnight. There is still a tendency within a fortnight. There is still a tendency among Treasury officers to believe that the condition of the money market has been exaggerated and to assume that Frederal aid has not been necessary at any time, and will not be. One official said te-day:

"Five million dollars in the whole volume of money makes the difference in New York between a state of comparative satisfaction and a state of hysteries. In other words, if there were $5,000,000 more money in the market the talk of tightness and of Federal aid would acarcely be heard and with $10,000,000 the talk would cease altogether. This amount does not seem large enough to justify so much anxiety."

In explanation of his statement the official said:

"According to Saturday's New York bank atatement, the reserves were about $2,800,000,000 below the legal requirement. Give the banks $5,000,000 and their legal, holdings would be $185,000,000 instead of $180,000,000 as they are now. This difference is not very great; in fact the percentage of difference is so small that the present expressions of alarm from New York cannot be justified on that basis.

Continuing, the same officer said that he on-great; in fact the percentage of difference is so small that the present expressions of alarm from New York cannot be justified on that basis.

Continuing the same officer said that he confidently, believed that the flow of money back to the East would begin very soon for the reason that the causes which called the money West were disappearing with the fall season. If bank reserves in New York were nearly $3,000,000 below the legal requirement on Nept 1, instead of on Nov. 13, there would be cause for anxiety, he thought, unless the Street should be strongly coorced to make liquidation. Considering the season, however, the present situation was not at all alarming. Bome elements of great encouragement were to be found in the New York situation, he declared. The commercial community was in good demand, bringing in some cases 5 percent. In his cominon the only thing to be feared now was that so much would be said regarding the tightnesses of money in New York, that Western bankers, who would naturally sond money East within a week or two, would withhold it because they feared some disaster in New York, when really there is no-chance of disaster. The feeling is strong in the Treasury Department that care should be taken not to impair the confidence of Western banks in the ability of New York money interests to pass through the present situation safely.

Since $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 would change the conditions in New York so rayorably, in the opinion of Treasury officers, they believe that money would probably then be at something like 3 per cent, and no further cause of complaint would exist.

Money on call on the New York Stock Exchang was not so tight vestered as a conclusion of the confidence of the conditions in New York so tayorably, in the conniction of the conditions of the thing like 3 per cent, and no further cause of complaint would exist.

Money on call on the New York Stock Exchange was not so tight yesterday as on some days last week. The ruling rates were it of per cent, but several millions of dollars were loaned in the afternoon at 0. The highest rate was 12, and the lowest 4, the last loan being made at 4. The Central Trust Company's appearance in the money market as a heavy lender at 0 per cent, was the feature of the dealings. This trust company is said never to charge more than 0 per cent, on its loans, and the money that it loaned represented a large block of money temporarily in its possession which is to be utilized to pay off an issue of $4.40,000 general mortgage land grant bonds of the Northern Pucific Railroad. It was the money market for the day.

One reflection of the easier rates was a sharp partial recovery in sterling exchange rates late in the day, after earlier weakness that had brought the demand sterling rate as low as $4.844, or within less than one cent in the pseud of the gold importing point. The closing rate for demand sterling was $4.854. The principal foreign exchange houses continued to express the opinion that there would be no gold imported at this time. One foreign hanker said that he expected that the local money market would get relief very shortly from the return of funds from the interior. There has already been a falling off in the demand for money to be shipped South to move cotton.

A Naval Board Decides That Townsend & Downey of this City Can Do the Work. WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. - Lieutenant-Commander Perry, representing the Bureau of Steam Engineering, and Naval Constructor Zahn, representing the Bureau of Conatruction, who went to New York to ascertain whether the firm of Townsend & Downey, which submitted a bid for the construction of one of the six protected cruisers included in this year's naval programme, was capable of building a naval yessel of that size, returned to Washington today and will submit their report to-morrow. bidders and compiled with all preliminary requirements.

No decision has been reached by the Board on Construction as to the award of bids for the construction of the six vessels. Some members of the board are in favor of adhering strictly to the plans of the Navy Department for the vessels, while others are apparently of the opinion that plans submitted by bilders, providing for high speed, in some cases 19 knots, should be accepted. The Department plans called for a speed of not less than 1614, knots.

FAILURE OF A BUILDING CONCERN. Mapes-Reeve Construction Company Lay

The affairs of the Mapes-Reeva Cor struction Company, with offices on the eleventh floor of the American Tract Society building, were put yesterday in the hands of a receiver by order of Justice Smith of the Supreme Court, Kings county. T. Channon Press of 253 East Sixty-sighth street was appointed receiver with instructions to wind up the business of the firm for the benefit of the

The liabilties are something over $100,000 and the principal creditors are the Irving Na-tional Bank and the Central National Bank. The company at present consists of L. O. Reeve, president, and his sone, Charles W. Reeve, president, and his sole, charles heeve and F. H. Reeve, secretary and treasurer. The assets are given as 500 shares of stock valued at $50,000; real estate mortgages, building material, &c., valued at from $75,000 to $100,000 and $250 cash. The from $75,000 to $100,000 and $250 cash. The receiver was appointed on the application of the company, which says it found itself washle to continue the business. The failure, it says was due to the delay of sub-contractors to whom paris of the contracts were let: Inability to secure iron on account of the great demand, the rise in the price of building materials and demands by carponters, bricklayers and others for higher wages, the sub-contractors could not afford to carry out the contracts on the original estimates. Among other contracts which the firm had in hand are a public school in Eighty-fourth street, an angine house in Maiden Lane, and the Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church in Brookiyn. The work on the school was delayed through the scarcity of iron and the cagine house was delayed, the company says, owing to complications with the Tammany architects, Horgan & Slattery.

SHOT WHILE DISCUSSING HOLD-UPS.

Wealthy Philadelphia Lawyer. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.-William Rowland Hunn, aged 17, son of a wealthy lawyer, and instantly killed Edwin Lippincott, proprietor of a cigar store at 140 North Thirteenth street this morning. The shooting was accidental but Hunn was locked up pending the inquest.

Hunn, his brother Charles, James G. Powell and several other boys were in the cigar store chatting with Lippincott. The conversation was upon the subject of hold-ups. Charles Hunn pulled two revolvers from his pocket, both londed, and said that it was a pretty persuasive argument for a man to present a revolver at your head and demand your money.

"Oh I don't know," said Lippincott. I don't think I'd give up so easily. I d take a chance of knocking the gun up and giving the fellow a punch in the stomach.

William Hunn said something about a method he had of preventing any one from fourthing the revolver. Then he took one of the weapons which he pointed at Lippincott, at the same time ordering him to throw up his hands. This Lippincott did, but after he got them up he made a grab for the revolver. How it happened the hoy says he does not know, but there was a flash and report, and Lippincott fell with a bullet in his stomach. Hunn and his brother returned to-day from a visit to Marvland, where they used the revolvers to shoot at birds. The boy says he did not think the revolver was loaded. and several other boys were in the cigar store

Seeking the Ratification of Dady's Contract

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 .- Lemuel E. Quigg is in Washington with Michael J. Dady of Brook lyn, and they hope to see the President, Secretary of War Root and Gen. Ludlow, Military Governor of Havana, to-morrow, in behalf of a Governor of Havana, to-morrow, in behalf of a favorable settlement of Mr. Daily's claim for the ratification of his $12,000,000 contract with the city of Havana. Mr. Daily says his contract would now have been in operation but for the opposition of tien, Ludlow. He added: We contend that we are entitled to have our contract fulfilled, and we stand ready to carry out our part. If not, however, we want our money, spent in the prosecution of this work, refunded. Secretary Alger offered me $100,000, which I declined as it would not have made me whole on what we have spent for plans, &c. I want either the contract or a decision by a board of arbitration as to how much I am entitled to. Let the War Department appoint one man, I will select another, and thetwo agree upon a third. Then I am ready to accept whatever amount they give me, whether $3.000 or $300.000. It is a question how long I can keep this up, My expenses in Havana alone are about one thousand dollars per month. While the contract would have been remunerative originally, all the profit is likely to be spent helors I get to work. We hope to have the matter definitely settled before we leave Washington." favorable settlement of Mr. Dady's claim fo

PRELIMINARY MEDAL-PLAY ROUND BY THE ASSOCIATE MEMBERS.

Miss Eunice Terry Makes the Lowest Score and Wins the Gold Trophy—Miss Bath Underhill and Mrs. Thomas Thacher Tie for Second Place-Guardsmen in a Match. Women were in charge of the links at the Ardsley Club yesterday for their open tourna-ment, which is to continue until Friday. Only ighteen cards were returned in the preliminary round for the two cups, which was somewhat of a disappointment, but word was re-ceived from the Morristown and Philadelphia players, as well as from some of the local lights, that they would be on hand this morning. The field included Miss Ruth Underhill, the woman champion, and Mrs. Charles S. Brown. winner of the first women's championship held in 1895 at the Meadowbrook Club. Miss Lucy Herron, Miss McLane, Miss May Barron Miss Eunice Terry and Mrs. A. De Witt, all of whom played in the women's championship, were also in the field

The corse was in the best possible condition and the day ideal for golfing. Mortimer, S. Paton and the Rev. Roderick Terry represented the Green Committee at the first tee to start the contestants. Miss Underhill was paired with Miss Herron and played a very good round, and, but for a tacking progress due to wild direction for the home hole, which cost her 11, she would have had a fine chance for the gold medal. As it was she took 10d. The trophy went to Miss Eurice Terry, who returned the score of 101, the best of the day. She went out in 48, and, with a five for the home hole, Miss Terry would have finished in 49, but poor work through the fair green made the hole a 9, so that the round cost her 53.

Mrs. Thacher, by very well-balanced but not brilliant play, tied with Miss Underhill, and Miss Brooks came in next with 109. Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cohrane, who was not on her true game, and Miss Melane were tied for the next place at 111, Miss Herron was also off her game, taking 115, while Miss Parron, who is always better at the match than the score game, required 122. Rean further said that the proposed "go" with Dan Creedon hangs fire because the dispesse A. C. of Urics, where the match was to have been held on Thankson ing Eve, will not give him what he wants in the way of purse money.

CORBETT POSTS $5,000 He Gives Jeffries Until Next Friday to Clinch a Match.

George F. Considine, Jim Corbett's manager, posted $5,000 with Al Smith yesterday afternoon to make a match with Jim Jeffries binding, and Corbett expects the champion to cover this deposit as soon as possible. The ex-champion was at his café at 3 o'clock the afternoon ready to greet Billy Brady who, Corbett said, had promised to mee him. Brady did not come, however, Tom Sharkey was there, but he only attended as a disinterested party. Corbett was evidently vexed at Brady's non-appearance and showed his chagrin in many ways. "I'll get him to fight me yet." he said. Then he at once despatched a messenger to Considine with a note, asking the latter to post a forfeit for him. After this Jim turned around to a number of his acquaintances and said:

I will give him until Friday next in which to make up his mind what to do. I am not do-ing this to advertise myself. I want to fight. I feel as though my youth and strength is still with me and that I can become the champion again. I don't wish to be accused of cowardice. That is the reason why I have taken this etatement. It was addressed to Jeffries:

Later in the day Cornett Issued the following statement. It was addressed to Jeffries:

Previous to your contest with Thomas Sharkey, your manager. Mr. William A. Brady, assured me that when you next defauled your title in the ring. I should be your opponent. Subsequent to your victory over Sharkey. Mr. Brady on several occasions, and once in your presence, an nounced that your next engagement in the ring would be with me. Relying implicitly on these solemin assurances by your manager: made in the presence of witnessee, I assumed that a match between you and my-relf was practically assured. Judge of my surprise then when I learned that Mr. Brady had given to other challengers verbal promises similar in nature to those made to me. I norder to set at rest all doubte on the subject, I sought your manager and asked for a definite answer to my demand for an immediate signing of articles. His reply, while not a point-blank refusel, was evasive. He inimated there was no hurry about the matter, and as Jeffries would not be ready to fight again for several months there was plenty of time in which to make a match. Fermit me to say that a delay in making a purillistic match is very dangerous, as botters have been known to change their minds. In any event desire an immediate match as I wish to begin early preparation for the contest. In view of the fact that I have the selumn promise of your manager to pit you against me in your next fight, what possible reason can be advanced for not signing articles at one?

In order, therefore, to bring the question to a reason can be advanced for not signing articles at once?

In order, therefore, to bring the question to a focus, and to remove all doubt as to my position in the matter, my manager. George F. Considine, has this day posted $5.000 with all fmith at the Gilesy House, this sum to bind a match and also to stand as a wager in any form you may see fit to designate. Providing you or your manager cover said money. I will then meet you on Nov. 17, at 3 P. M., and sign articles. In making this direct and definite proposition, the acceptance or refusal of which will show plainly your attitude, permit me to say that I am actuated rolely by a desire to advance my interests in my business as a boxer, and have no personal bias. It has been stated by your admirers that would prove an easy victim to your skill and strength. If that is so, then the money and that of my friends, as well as the purse, is at your mercy. That alone should be incentive enough for you to clinch the match. At the same time I think I may, without the alightest trace of exotion, express my opinion that a big, clever man will make more headwar against with Sharkey I was quite as effective as you in twenty five against the sailor.

What Corbett intends to, do should the champion ignore him, is not known. His friends say he will not fight any one size no matter what other allurements are held out. Jeffries thinks he can easily whip Corbett, but does not want to act until he talks the subject over with Brady. If the encounter is ratified on next Friday, Corbett will probably engage Kid McCoy as shis chief mentor. McCoy, it is said, is willing to succept the place. About a year ago McCoy and Corbett were matched to fight. A disagreement arose and the fight did not come off. After that each had a deep hatred for the other. A few days before Jeffries and Firstmemons fought McCoy and Corbett met and shook hands, and the friend-ship between the pair since then has been as firm as adamant. Corbett, if the match is clinched, will train in Westchester. clinched, will train in Westchester.
Billy Brady when questioned regarding Corbett's deposit and statement, said:
"It is all right, arparently. I have nothing to say, as yet, but will act to-morrow. Jeffries will fight Corbett, you can gamble."

Mistakes in Weights Cause Trouble at WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.-Two mistakes of the part of those in charge of the secretary's office caused some lively kicking in the betting ring at Beanings this afternoon. The first was in the third race. Queen of Song ruled favorite. with Campania a strong second choice because shejliad ten pounds the better of Queen of Song. Just before the horses went to the post Queen of Song was backed from 6 to 5 to 3 to 5, and then came the announcement that Campania's weight should be 111 instead of 120, as carded. This, of course, changed matters considerably and there was a big shift in the betting. Queen of Song's price fell to 1 to 4, and Campania's from 2 to 1 to 7 to 2. Queen of Song won the race, but she had to be ridden out to beat Goal Runner by half a length.

After betting had been going on for some time in the fourth, Back Talk's weight was changed from 101 to 111 pounds, which just beat him, for, after lending all the way, he was nipped in the last four strides and beaten out by a seek by Precursor. Magic Light, the invortic, ran away five furiongs in a false break and this settled his chances. Diminutive was favorite to the course the eighteen in the first race, but finished last. She was so lame going to the post that she could hardly walk and finished last. Uncle Louis, at 7 to 1, won the race, Miss Hanover, a hot favorite in the second race, was the last of the four starters to finish, and the caused the stewards to order her entires refused for the balance of the meeting, as her race was pounds below her true form. Cupidity and Fieuron raced head and head all the way. Fieuron winning by a neck. St. Simonlan had a poor lot of maidees to beat in the last, and he won, pulled up to a walk, by eight lengths from Havelock. Summhry:

First Bace—Fire and one-half furionss—Uncle him, for, after leading all the way, he was nipped
